DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
2. Claims 1-6, 9-14, 16-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hjertman et al (US 5679111). Hjertman discloses a device for dosing a liquid preparation comprising a housing 3 having internal and external threads, a piston rod 12, a coupling 7, a dose dial sleeve 2, a drive sleeve 17, and a clutch sleeve 15. See Fig. 1. Hjertman inherently discloses the steps of providing the drive mechanism above. The device may be used to inject a patient with insulin (Col. 3, lines 16-17).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
4. Claims 7, 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hjertman in view of Slate et al (US 2002/0167499). Claims 7 and 15 differ from Hjertman in calling for the device to be a needle free device. Slate teaches an injection device with a drive mechanism similar to that of Hjertman that is a needle free jet injector that allows the device to be used a large number of times with a large number of patients without the risk of spreading disease (Page 1, paragraph 0003). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to modify the device of Hjertman to be a needle free device as taught by Slate to allow the device to be used a large number of times with a large number of patients without the risk of spreading disease.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 10/10/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
6. Applicant argues that the piston rod of Hjertman is not threadedly engaged with element 3 of Hjertman. The examiner points applicant to Col. 6, lines 9-14 where it is disclosed that the piston is attached to locking lugs 14 that are threadedly coupled to element 3. It is the examiner's position that this meets the claim limitation of being coupled.
7. Applicant argues that the clutch sleeve 15 is not between the drive sleeve and the dose dial sleeve. The examiner points out that the clutch sleeve is on the interior of both the drive sleeve and the dose dial sleeve and it is the examiner's interpretation that the clutch sleeve is between them because it is within the two members.

Conclusion

8. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
